He spied on them, silently invading their most intimate moments, then entered their homes. For the victims of serial rapist Ronnie Shelton, the ordeal began with his terrifying whisper: Dont look at me. Do what I say and you wont get hurt. . . . Each woman had been attacked by a stranger who in a moment devastated her life and left her to face unfinished murder -- the emotional and psychological devastation that is the aftermath of rape. At the end of a five-year manhunt, Shelton would be convicted of raping twenty-nine women -- probably less than a third of those he actually raped. Unfinished Murder is the incredible story of a group of survivors who found the courage to speak out, to testify against Shelton and see justice served. During his reign of terror, they lived in fear and silence, warned by him that if they talked he would come back and kill them. After his arrest, they bonded together and found understanding and healing. . . . Among his victims were Karen Holztrager, a wife and mother who was haunted later by recurring nightmares. . . . Becky Roth, a teacher of the handicapped, who after the rape suffered depression, suicidal feelings, and, subsequently, a shattered marriage. . . . Betty Ocilka, a postal worker and policemens widow, who forced herself not to cry during the attack because the sound would frighten her young son sleeping upstairs. Detective Bob Matuszny, who knew Betty Ocilka and had known her late husband, made Sheltons arrest his personal mission. Matuszny was outraged that a serial rapist was marauding through his city...
